הַמְחָשָׁה

Perspectives

Take a white sheet of paper and drizzle a few splashes of paint on it. You can fold the page in the middle to create shapes or let the paint run on the paper. Look together at the stains that have formed and use crayons to turn each stain into a new painting.

חֵקֶר

What does Bear see?

Put parchment paper or a transparent handkerchief over your eyes, look around at familiar objects in the house and at each other – what's different? How does it feel?

לְצֵאת הַחוּצָה

Seeing the familiar from a new perspective

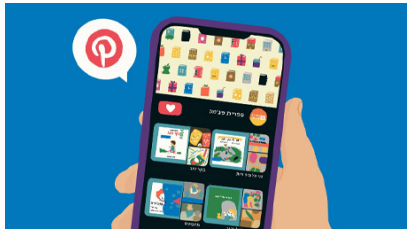

Take a short walk in the garden, or on the path near your house. Look at the branches of trees, stones, or the shapes of the clouds, and try to imagine other things in them: Maybe the dry branch looks like an outstretched hand? Or maybe the stone resembles a tortoise's armor?
